Junta: Viva el Presidente!

Some years have elapsed, military has lost his importance, militias now are doing dirty work. The popular characters (Minister, Admiral etc.) own lots of money and big estates, but they still are competing for being the president. Therefore the current president proposes each round money and tactical cards to other players, hoping they will support him remaining in office.

A completely new dice game in the setting of the very successful board game Junta. This is not an expansion for Junta, but rather a stand-alone game. Like original Junta, this game is biting, intriguing, and backstabbing.
